Stop the Fast-track to Destruction

The Government's Fast-track Approvals Bill would allow individual Ministers to approve any project, anywhere in the country no matter what the impact on communities or the environment.

Under the Bill, Shane Jones has said "Mining will be turbocharged"*.

But it's not only about mining. Nowhere is safe, no neighbourhood, no river, no mountain, not even conservation land. And, normal consultation wouldn't apply, meaning the public wouldn't get a say.

The Bill would override all environmental law. Projects under the Bill would be able to pour pollution into rivers, beaches, into the air around us, destroy forests and even kill kiwi.

Jones said in Parliament even where projects would harm kiwi, our national bird, they could go ahead*.
It sounds bad because it is bad.

Stop this Government from destroying the places we live in and love.
Stop this Government turning Aotearoa into a massive hole.
